INFORMATION ABOUT COOKIES

A cookie is a small file of letters and numbers that is stored on your browser or your device (such as the hard drive of your computer) when you visit a website. Cookies contain information that is transferred to your computer's hard drive. Cookies are useful because they allow a website to recognise a user's device. Our site uses cookies.

Cookies do lots of different jobs, such as letting you navigate between pages efficiently, remembering your preferences, and also allows us to improve our site.

WEB BEACONS (CLEAR GIFS / WEB BUGS).

Some of the pages on this site may contain electronic images known as web beacons that allow us to count the number of users who have visited those pages. We may also include web beacons in promotional e-mail messages or newsletters in order to determine whether messages have been opened and acted upon (including whether the recipient clicked on a link in the email or forwarded the email to another person).

HOW WE USE COOKIES

The cookies used on this site have been categorised based on the categories developed by the International Chamber of Commerce UK. We use the following cookies:

Strictly necessary cookies. These are cookies that are required for the operation of our site, and includes cookies that we use to help the content of the pages on this site load quickly and effectively. For those types of cookies that are strictly necessary, no consent is required as we do not collect information from which you can be identified.

Third party cookies. Please note that third parties may also use cookies, over which we have no control. Please check the policies of these third party websites for further information about their use of cookies.

BLOCKING COOKIES.

You can block cookies by activating the setting on your browser that allows you to refuse the setting of all or some cookies. However, if you use your browser settings to block all cookies (including essential cookies) you may not be able to access all or parts of our site.
